

Build a successful hybrid workplace with the right technology

Enable collaboration, connection, choice, and control with Microsoft Surface devices.

Balancing a workforce in which employees are working remotely full-time, returning to the office indefinitely, or experiencing a blend of the two can be challenging for companies to navigate. A hybrid workplace environment should consider these four elements:

Connection

Empower employees to connect

Reduce meeting fatigue, increase engagement in virtual calls, and create an environment in which everyone feels like they have a seat at the table.

Collaboration

Give people better tools to collaborate

Modern devices have functional, flexible collaboration tools built in, which work seamlessly with critical business apps, so that employees can work together from anywhere.

Choice

Choice lets people work their way

When employees can choose the device that meets their needs, you can see a real impact in both productivity and employee satisfaction.

Control

Maintain control to keep information safe

The ability to securely manage devices remotely is vital to business continuity and can mean significant time and cost savings for IT.

Get more from the investment you make in your hybrid workplace with Surface for Business devices.

▶ See what Surface for Business can do for you.